

William F. Borrega

CS101

ITC

The index.html file is the main page of my website. It starts with a homepage that highlights various destinations with brief descriptions to engage visitors. Next is the contact section, which includes a form for users to send messages directly to me. This enables easy communication and interaction with my audience. Lastly, the about section explains why I created the blog. It is stated in this section why I chose these destinations.

I used 3 html files and 3 css files, 1 css for each html files.